THE PINE CONE

PRESENTED BY

THE SENIOR CLASS

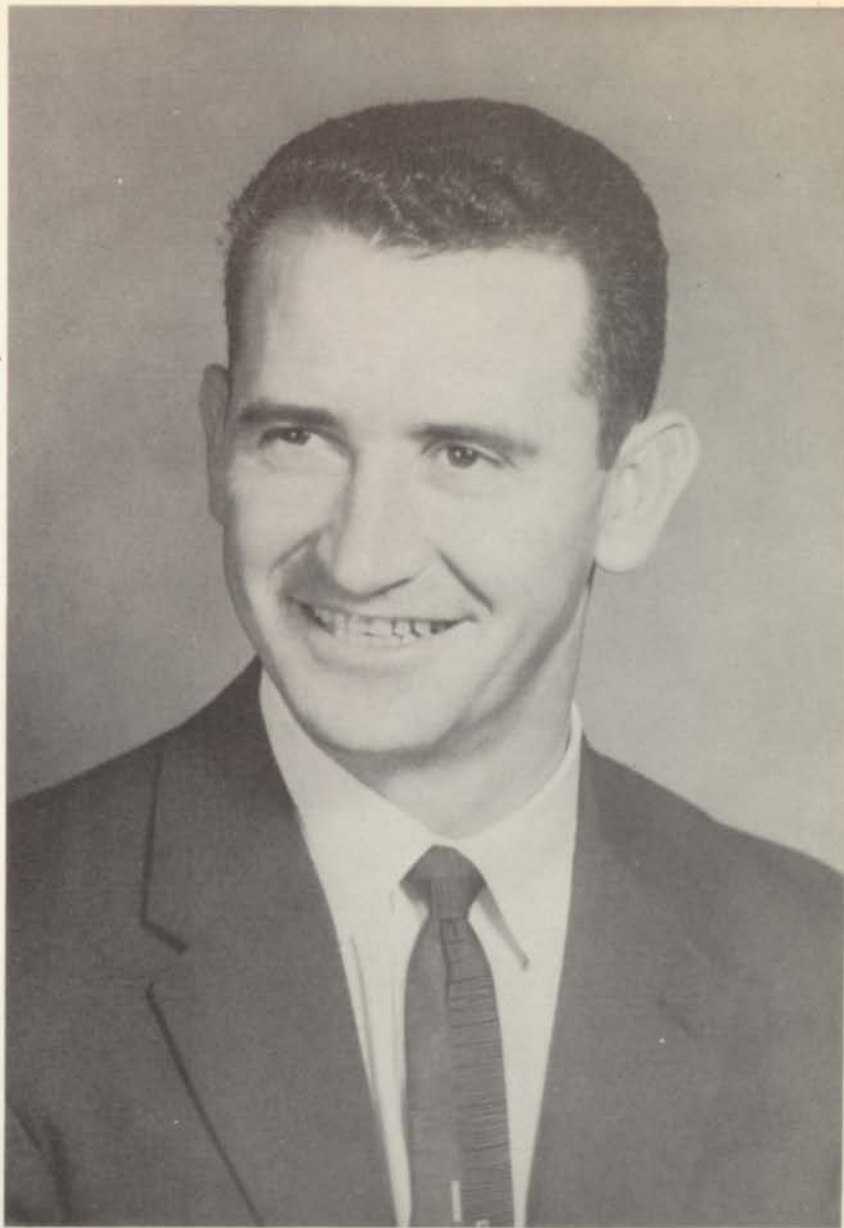

OF

NEW BOSTON HIGH SCHOOL

1958-59

The Pine Cone's purpose is to keep bright the memories which grow dim in the future;
to keep fresh the friendships formed in high school. If in later years, while turning these pages you should recall the many smiles, sorrows, and dreams of '59 we shall be content, knowing that our work has not been in vain.

A good principal must have deep interest in his students as individuals, ever striving to find and fulfill their needs. He must have enthusiasm for his work and possess the ability to pass on this sense of well-being. Honesty, fairness, and justice must be engrained in his being.

We feel that Mr. Simpson possesses these characteristics. Tirelessly and continuously he has worked ever advancing the interests of the students and the school.

With a great deal of respect and admiration we, the Seniors, proudly dedicate the 1958-59 edition of The Pine Cone to Mr. Hurbert Simpson, our principal.

WELDON McCORD

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

The whole world has awakened to the fact that it is through education that man can complete his destiny. Education has become THE cornerstone of modern civilization.

To this end America is spending billions of dollars for the improvement of its educational program.

There are many, many opportunities for young people today. Some are enticing because of the money and some because of the challenge to ingenuity and ambition. Many young people are confused because of the varied aspects of their opportunities. They have been told by their friends and by experts that they should consider their aptitudes, their desires, and the market for their services. Yet the decisions are still hard to make.

Even though I know the decisions are hard, it is my sincerest wish that the instruction you have received will enable you to take your place in the world of tomorrow.

MESSAGE

It has been a pleasure to work with you on your long journey through high school. I have watched you grow mentally, physically, and socially.

Some have fallen by the way, but I commend those of you who have completed the full trip. I know that you are the best of American youth and will be excellent representatives of a school that is proud of you.

My greatest joy from working with you, will be your success.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses, income, and transfers between accounts.

Next, the document outlines the process of reconciling bank statements with the company's records. This involves comparing the bank's record of transactions with the company's ledger to identify any discrepancies. Common reasons for discrepancies include timing differences, such as deposits in transit or outstanding checks, and errors in recording or omission of transactions.

The document then provides a detailed explanation of the accounting cycle, which consists of eight steps: 1) identifying and recording transactions, 2) journalizing, 3) posting to the ledger, 4) determining account balances, 5) preparing a trial balance, 6) adjusting entries, 7) preparing financial statements, and 8) closing the books. Each step is described in detail, including the necessary journal entries and ledger postings.

Finally, the document discusses the preparation of financial statements, including the balance sheet, income statement, and statement of cash flows. It explains how these statements are derived from the adjusted ledger accounts and provides examples of how to format and present the information. The document also touches upon the importance of internal controls and the role of the auditor in verifying the accuracy of the financial statements.
