Box of color, anyone?

I'm a cool, cool, cool, cool rider!

Is THIS the picture you didn't want in the annual, Mrs. Cloude?

No, Mr. Garrett, THIS is how Superman stands.

I know I hid it somewhere in here.

Yes, we spiked the punch!

Mrs. V.J., what was that you said again?

Well, duh!?!

Are those flowers you're wearing?

Windy today?

Is it really that funny, Mr. McMurry?

The book thief has been discovered!!!

I see a pale (wrinkled) moon rising!

I hate to be a tyrant, but . . .

I said, "THE LIBRARY IS CLOSED!"

Mrs. Rodgers, do you have a hall pass?

Shut your mouths, the flies are getting in!

CHEESE!

Ms. Brown, we said no posing.

I know, she's SO embarrassing!

You need HOW many burns?

That's my story, and I'm sticking to it!

Laverne Stubbs and Vira Jo Atkinson at retirement reception held in their honor.

Tell it like it is!

Dewayne Hardage calls it quits after 24 years.

Mr. Westfall, how long did you say you worked for Mrs. Stubbs?

Mrs. V.J. says goodbye after 18 years.

Uh, which is which?

Homecoming '93

Homecoming 1993 was different in many ways. It was held much earlier in the football season; in fact, it was our first home game of the year. The New Boston Lions faced Winnsboro and came away with their second defeat of the season.

In addition, the traditional procedure for choosing the homecoming royalty was changed. Girls from each grade were nominated by the football team. The selection process was then turned over to the entire student body. Freshman, sophomore, and junior classes chose a white and a minority student to represent each class. Then the homecoming sweetheart was chosen by the entire student body from the three girls chosen by the senior class. The football players escorted the girls at the pep rally, fathers escorted the girls at the pre-game ceremony, and a student council representative announced the selection of the homecoming sweetheart at the game.

Lions roaring through!

Do we get points for looking good?

Let's blow this joint!

Dusty, this looks silly. I told you we should have worn our cowboy hats!

Is that tuna on your can?

So this is high school?

Thus, the organization's name became Fellowship of Christian Students. A leadership committee was selected, and this group was responsible for the programs. The attendance ranged from 25-40 students; and many either planned, participated, or were in attendance weekly on Wednesday morning at 7:30.

BUILDING TRADES

The Building Trades classes of New Boston High School undertook a large project this year. The classes learned many job skills as they built a house from the ground up.

The pictures on these two pages depict the students working on the flooring, walls, roof, and inside cabinets. The house was completed by the end of the school year and sold to the highest bidder.

I wish to tell the New Boston Junior High students, the best kids in Texas, how much I have enjoyed being with you during my initial year in administration. You are intelligent, enthusiastic, and a real pleasure with which to be associated. We send our eighth grade graduating class to high school with great pride . . . they will achieve. We welcome our returning students and those who will be new to our campus. I, and the rest of the staff, will continue to supply your educational needs and assist you any way we can.

... and other duties as assigned.

See Larry, it doesn't hurt when Miss Wanda pulls your tooth.

I told you it wasn't going to work.

He did it.
